San Mateo County Health Officer Dr. Scott Morrow today issued a revised shelter in place order to allow, with restrictions and safety measures, places of worship to hold services and retail stores to allow customers inside. The order, which goes into effect on June 1, 2020, further aligns the County with Gov. Gavin Newsom's Resilience Roadmap.

The County's health order also removes the previous limitations on access and activities at beaches in San Mateo County. Beaches may now operate normally, as long as beachgoers adhere to social distancing and face covering guidelines.

While the order is intended to align San Mateo County with state guidelines, there are additional local requirements for how business is performed. San Mateo County's order continues to require development, implementation, and posting of a social distancing protocol. The local order also continues to require that everyone who can work from home be assigned to work from home.

For more information on the County's shelter in place order, please visit the main San Mateo County website.
